Statement of significance/ Reasons for designation

Architectural: The church was designed by Frederick Rowntree in 1914. A large carefully detailed brick building, steeply roofed (similar to those at Hampstead Garden Suburb). Western gable with Venetian window; stone details including a curious semi-elliptical front porch with composite capitals to classical columns.

Townscape: Contributes to local character. Key landmark, and is prominently visible from Hallowell Road.

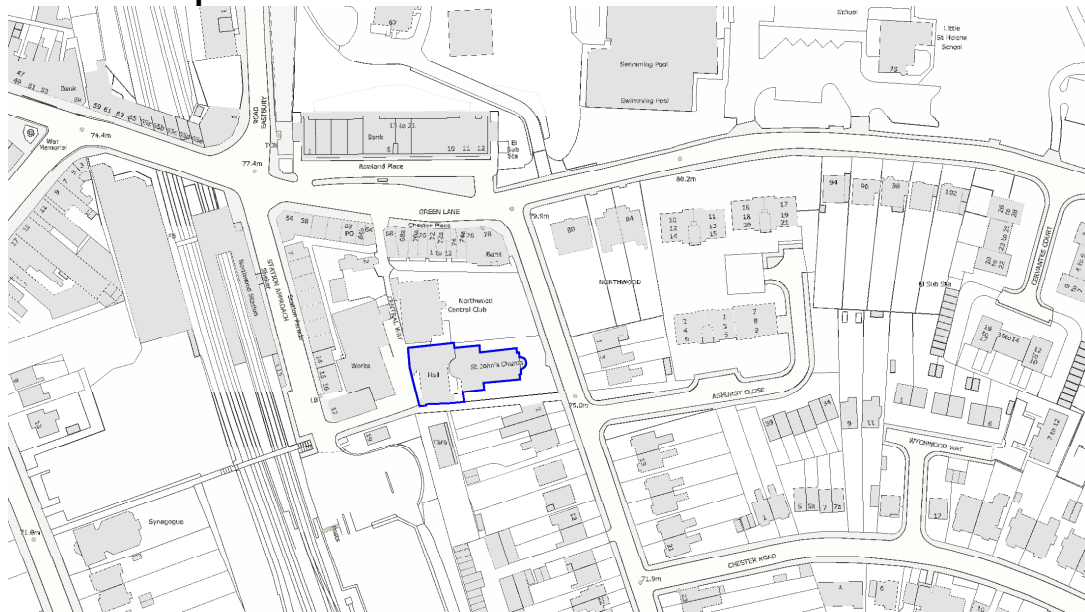

Historic: Community Associations
